

I believe the Wisconsin no call act should remain as it is. Most people who have severed ties with consumers have done it for good reason and it would be ludicrous to allow them to continue to call after such ties have been severed.